Table of Contents

Our editors have some hidden features which can be enabled. We don't enable all features automatically because it depends on UX which features make sense. We have a copy-to-clipboard feature:

The DoB field is a date field and on the right, you have 3 icons:

- x = delete
- copy text to clipboard
- open date chooser

The copy text to clipboard icon is optional and can be enabled for every editor. Simply add the style to your (cell)editor. After pressing the icon, a small info bar will appear: Copied to clipboard

`f_copy`

If you have password fields, it's usually helpful to show the password in plain text. By default we don't show plain text passwords, but we have a feature for you:

The password field shows the optional icons:

- show plain text
- copy text to clipboard

If you show the plain text the password will be shown in plain text until you click the icon again or until you press a key. The screenshot shows another additional feature. Below the password field, you can see a gray bar. This bar will show the strength of your password.

We calculate a score for your password:

- length >= 6 (+ 0.2)
- length >= 10 (+ 0.2)
- A-Z (+ 0.2)

- 0-9 (+ 0.2)
- All except: A-Z and a-z and 0-9 (+ 0.2)

The score will be translated to the password strength:

- Very weak (score ⇐ 0.2)
- Weak (score ⇐ 0.4)
- Fair (score ⇐ 0.6)
- Good (score ⇐ 0.8)
- Strong (score > 0.8)

The text will be shown below the gray bar.

To enable the password scrength, simply add:

`f_passwordstrength`

as style.
